WHAT IS THE NCFR?

The NCFR was founded in 1938 as an inter-professional forum through which members of those disciplines interested in family life might think, work, and plan together for the strengthening of marriage and family life. Its objectives are to provide opportunities for individuals, organized groups, and agencies interested in family research, counseling and education to plan and act together on matters relevant to marriage and family living, including establishment of professional standards, promotion and coordination of educational efforts, encouragement of research, and extension of community services for families.

PRIVILEGES OF MEMBERSHIP

FELLOWSHIP WITH FAMILY SPECIALISTS from a wide variety of professions.

TWO QUARTERLY JOURNALS, both key resources in the family area:

JOURNAL OF MARRIAGE AND THE FAMILY, which emphasizes significant advances in family research.

THE FAMILY COORDINATOR: Journal of Education, Counseling, and Services, which is devoted to the applied aspects of family research and theory.

A QUARTERLY NEWSLETTER of Council affairs.

ANNUAL MEETINGS, where stimulating and outstanding plenary sessions are offered, and section meetings are held on research, family action, counseling, education, and the topic chosen for special emphasis for the year.

1974 ANNUAL MEETING—OCTOBER 22-26,
