James C. Walters, 1982-83 NCFR President

Good News! Like many families in recent years, NCFR has been faced with rising costs that have exceeded increases in income. There have been times when our savings during the past few years were dangerously low. In reading our end-of-the-year financial statement, it is easy to miss the behind-the-scenes drama that is enacted throughout the year. This is the reason: a great portion of our income comes in during the last three months of the year — just prior to and following the annual meeting. Thus, at the year's end, our yearly financial statement always makes it appear that little difficulty was encountered during the year.

There have been times, however, when we have had $3,000 left in our bank account, that is, our unrestricted savings. Considering that our budget is approximately $500,000 a year, we are, as one observer has noted, "cutting it a little close."

In the past two years I have learned more about NCFR's financial affairs than I had learned in the previous 25 years. I am convinced that many members really don't understand our financial history, nor our financial status. In ways that I still do not fully understand, Ruth Jewson and her great staff have always managed to pull us through in spite of some decisions that were made by the Board of Directors that were financially unsound.

I am, however, convinced that with Dr. Jewson's forthcoming retirement it is essential that a greater number of members understand our financial position and what we must do to protect it.

Anyone who has actively participated in the stock market understands what a change in management of a company can do to the most carefully monitored enterprise. To protect our future we must continue to exercise responsible concern for our financial operation, and a larger segment of the membership, I believe, must become more knowledgeable about our financial affairs.

Here are some observations I believe merit your consideration:

1. Historically, NCFR has operated with very modest savings. If a family with a $20,000 income encountered a period of inflation yet its income did not increase, it would very likely not be unduly concerned if it had savings in the amount of 25% of its annual income to see it through a financially difficult period. So it is with NCFR. If we can attain an unrestricted savings level of 25% of our annual income ($125,000), we will have some assurance that we can withstand all but a most difficult emergency. How far are we from our goal? We are making truly splendid progress!

On December 31, 1980, we had $109,000 in unrestricted savings. On December 31, 1981, we had $79,000. By August 31, 1982, we were down to $29,500, but by December 31, 1982, we had $93,000! There are two factors responsible for this turn around in our financial picture: (1) Dr. Jewson during the last two years has cut down spending to the bone, and (2) the Board of Directors voted not to approve a budget that involved deficit spending, and voted to limit spending whenever it could in order to establish a sensible savings level.

Let me point out that various Sections of the Organization have little bits of money in their accounts. These are called "restricted" savings. If, however, we started spending money out of the Osborne Award account or the Burgess Award account in order to pay our rent, we would be in serious difficulty with the members, for these accounts were established for very specific purposes.

2. We are in a period of rising costs: and what are the consequences? Nearly all NCFR members believe that their dues go to pay journal production costs. This is incorrect: the journals largely pay for themselves. But will this continue?

The Journal of Marriage and the Family has been our biggest publication moneymaker. Not only is it a scholarly success, it is a financial success as well. Very honestly, we have been highly dependent upon JMF to carry the major cost of our journals. I wish, however, to share with you specific financial information. In doing so, I cannot include the dozens of factors that should be considered. Although what I am revealing is not the total story in each of the examples, the conclusion I am attempting to document is correct and is exceedingly important.

In 1980 JMF had a profit of approximately $50,000. Although its profit declined to approximately $34,500 in 1982, the deficit of Family Relations declined from $6,500 in 1980 to approximately $1,500 in 1982. The deficit of Journal of Family History declined from approximately $10,000 in 1980 to $9,000 in 1982. In other words, Family Relations and Journal of Family History cost slightly more money than they earn, but their deficits are decreasing. Very roughly, our total profit was $33,500 in 1980, and $24,000 in 1982. During one of the most difficult financial periods in our nation's history in the last 50 years, during a time when one would have logically expected severe declines in the profits of our journals, our profits have not declined appreciably.

Now, obviously, I have picked my figures carefully. But they are true. We are, however, faced with a 4% printing increase for 1983, and an additional 6% printing increase in 1984. Increases in printing costs, it should be pointed out, have been very modest over the last 10 years. The conclusion is unmistakable: we have functioned extraordinarily well under difficult circumstances, but we must be prepared for further price increases.

3. Receipts from members have decreased. Receipts from membership have decreased $2,000 in the last year. Yet, if one considers our receipts since 1980, there has been an increase of $12,500. Clearly, this is not a remarkable increase, but when one considers the financial plight of middle-income people, it is gratifying that we have done so well.

- 4. Our overall financial picture is good. In 1980, our surplus was $11,281. In 1981, our deficit was $29,393. In 1982, our surplus was $14,634. By careful monitoring of resources we are financially sound.
- 5. Our financial future depends on the Executive Officer, the staff at NCFR head-quarters, the Board of Directors, and the membership. Only through the continued, intelligent efforts of everyone can we succeed financially in the future. NCFR is filled with people who can think of how to spend money. What is needed at this time are people who can think of how to save money. The good news is that there are an increasing number of persons who see the sense in giving up a philosophy of deficit spending. At the very top of the list of excellent financial managers is Ruth Jewson. Let's choose a successor who is as wise.
- There are no immediate plans to move NCFR headquarters to another Twin Cities The NCFR offices have been location. housed in the third floor of an American Baptist Church in Minneapolis for over a quarter of a century. It is not a beautiful office. In the summer it gets hot in Minneapolis, and Ruth Jewson's oscillating fan does little to cool it off. If we had a great place to move to, I would present the facts to the Board of Directors in order to seek their approval for a move. I would fly to Minneapolis, rent a U-Haul truck, and help the office staff move. The truth is we can't afford to move. I am sharing this information with you in the hope that someone will prove me wrong and move us to a better facility. Having seen a good number of movies in the 1940s, I am hopeful this will all come to pass just before the conclusion of the current crop of NCFR officers are replaced. The reality, however, and the good news is that the church has permitted us to rent — at a price we can afford — two more rooms so that one does not fall over boxes stacked in the hallway.

- 7. We need a NCFR Development Committee. We have one! Dr. Marvin B. Sussman has assumed the leadership of this committee. It is really not necessary to wait until Marvin contacts you for a gift, please send him one (and stipulate that your gift is to pay for the move of the NCFR headquarters before the picture show is over!) Write Marvin and share your ideas. His address is: Individual and Family Studies, College of Human Resources, 101 Alison Hall, University of Delaware, Newark, DE 19711 (phone: 302-737-3310).
- 8. We need a Presidents' Commission on the Structure of NCFR. We have one! Its chair is Dr. Dennis Orthner. We need to examine our structure to see if we can facilitate the continued development of an organization that will bring people together from a variety of areas who have common concerns and aspirations about families. Write Dennis and share your ideas. His address is: SRA Corporation, 901 South Highland Street, Arlington, VA 22204 (phone: 703-486-0600).
- 9. We need your ideas! Every idea you send me will be considered by some person or committee within NCFR. Together, we can work to make NCFR a more effective agent for change. Your thoughtful understanding of our financial status, your patience with us when your request for resources is denied by the Board, and your willingness to work with us are deeply and sincerely appreciated.

1983 NCFR Annual Meeting St. Paul Radisson Hotel St. Paul, Minnesota October 11-15

"Linkages: Maximizing Family Energy Work / Family, Kin, Friendship/ Community"

The 1983 Annual Meeting of the NCFR will offer an innovative program highlighting the theme of maximizing family energy through linkages with work, family, kin, friends, and community. Many special events are planned, including invited keynote speakers, thematic sessions, master lectures, media presentations, Section meetings, Affiliated Council sessions, and didactic seminars. Mary Hicks, Florida State University, program vice president, and Section chairs, Kenneth Barber, C. Ray Fowler, Hyman Rodman, Sharon Houseknecht, Brent Miller, and Harriette McAdoo, will announce details of the diverse and interesting program in the May Newsletter.

In the meanwhile, Linda Budd, local information chair, writes of plans for your enjoyment of the Twin Cities.

"My committee and I are already busy trying to gather together all the exciting opportunities you will experience by visiting the city of St. Paul. For instance preparation is underway to block a section of seats at the Guthrie Theater presentation of "The Entertainer" by John Osborne on Friday night, October 14. The play you may recognize has been on screen twice, once with Laurence Olivier and once with Jack Lemmon. As you are probably aware, the Guthrie Theater is both a nationally and internationally recognized theater company, and for "The Entertainer" they have invited as guest director Aean Schneider.

The Minnesota Orchestra will be celebrating its 81st anniversary year. During your visit here the Orchestra will perform Wednesday and Friday evenings at Orchestra Hall in Minneapolis and Thursday evening at O'Shaughnessy Auditorium in St. Paul. Their program that week includes works by Wagner, Musgrave, Webern, and Mendelssohn, and will be conducted by our music director, Neville Mariner, with guest pianist Andras Schifs and guest flutist, Eugenia Zukerman.

There are many other opportunities that we will present to you in the coming months, including schedules of The Children's Theater, the St. Paul Chamber Orchestra, and the Northrop Dance Season. Unfortunately for you gourmets, we regret to inform you that you will miss the peak lutefisk season. However we can offer you almost any possible cuisine you desire in some of the finest restaurants in the nation. For nonsmokers we also offer our Minnesota Smoking Law which provides for different dining areas for smokers and nonsmokers.

The committee has already made preliminary arrangements with the YWCA next door to the Radisson to provide child care during the conference. We are also currently mapping jogging paths. If there are other needs that you might have, please let us know what they are."

1983 NCFR Pre-Conference Workshop on Theory Construction and Research Methodology

The 13th annual Pre-conference Workshop on Theory and Methods will be held on October 11th and 12th at the St. Paul Radisson Hotel. This workshop offers a unique opportunity to discuss work while it is still in progress. Papers address family theories and theory construction and a wide range of research methods which are being designed, tested, or applied to family studies. All papers are sent to workshop registrants six weeks in advance of the workshop. The workshop consists of 90 minute sessions consisting of one or two papers concerning a common theoretical or methodological issue. As all papers are expected to be read in advance sessions are devoted to careful discussion and exchange. Session leaders only briefly summarize paper(s), while discussants distribute their written comments and then orally discuss the paper(s). Students are encouraged to become involved in the workshop.

We have received abstracts from those who wish to present papers at the 1983 workshop (the deadline was March 1, 1983). We are still seeking individuals who would like to volunteer to serve as either session leaders (whose role is to briefly summarize the paper at the beginning of the session and to facilitate discussion) and discussants (whose role is to read the paper, write up his or her comments, and present them orally at the workshop).

A fee of $20.00 covers registration, duplication, postage, and secretarial services when registering before August 25th. After that date the fee increases to $35.00. This year, again, graduate students may register collectively. One of a group of students must register at the normal fee of $20.00 and that student will receive the entire package of papers. The remaining graduate students in the group pay only the $5.00 registration fee. Those graduate students who choose to register at the $5.00 fee will not receive papers, but will be expected to borrow them from the student in the group who has paid the full fee.

Those wishing more information on the workshop, and those wishing to register or to volunteer to serve as session leaders or discussants should write to: Marilyn Ihinger-Tallman, Department of Sociology, Washington State University, Pullman, WA 99164.

NCFR Membership: Keep a Good Thing Growing!

An active, dedicated membership is the lifeblood of any organization. It is extremely important that you pass on the good news to others about all that NCFR is and does. In each NCFR Newsletter we will be providing you with some easy, specific tips for increasing membership. For example, have you tried:

-Circulating the NCFR Newsletter and a membership brochure in your department or office?

Asking us for multiple copies of the NCFR membership brochure to share at other professional meetings you attend?

-Posting the NCFR Newsletter and membership brochures on your departmental or office bulletin board?

-Sending us the names and addresses of people who you think would be interested in joining NCFR? We'll send them a special invitation letter and a brochure to join.

All members of the Membership Committee are working on your behalf. Watch for some exciting news about new membership campaigns in future issues of the newsletter. In the meantime, if you have any questions be sure to write me or the NCFR office. We'll do everything we can to help.

Report from the Public Policy Committee

The Public Policy Committee would like to report several recent developments in the policy arena of interest to NCFR members. As many of you know, in September the House passed a resolution authorizing the Select Committee on Children. Youth, and Families. This Committee was designed to oversee policy issues relevant to children and families. In particular, such a committee and staff could highlight policy issues impacting on children, youth, and families to assure accountability and to reduce overlap. However, no appropriations to operate the committee were specified in September. During the "lame duck" session the House was to determine the level of funding for the Committee. Due to a full schedule, appropriations were not determined and the Select Committee automatically terminated with the 97th Congress. Therefore, the 98th Congress had to vote to reauthorize the development of this Committee for another 2 years. HR 16 was introduced on January 3, 1983, and subsequently was passed. Congressman George Miller of California was selected to chair the Committee. The Committee will first meet on March 8. Therefore, the level of appropriations for the Committee will not be determined prior to that date. If you would like a list of the 25 member committee or other information regarding its role, please contact Ann Rosewater, Legislative Assistant to Congressman George Miller, at 2422 Rayburn Building, Washington, DC 20515 (phone: 202-225-2095).

Currently the Family Protection Act is under review by Senator Jepsen and his staff. As you know, several of the provisions have already been passed and a number have been introduced as separate bills. Therefore, Senator Jepsen will be making a decision within a month or two whether or not to reintroduce the remaining provisions as one act. The provisions on voluntary prayer in the schools and a tax credit or exemption for households with a dependent aged 65 or over have already been reintroduced to the 98th Congress. Senator Jepsen is also considering reintroducing the provisions allowing parents to sue schools if they are not allowed to review textbooks prior to adoption, and allowing any required course on parenting to be taught by church or parents on a release time basis. In addition, the provision establishing a savings plan for a child's education has also been reintroduced to the 98th Congress. If you would like a current update on the status of the Family Protection Act, contact the office of Senator Roger Jepsen, S. R. 120, Washington, DC 20510 (phone: 202-224-3254).

Submitted by the NCFR Public Policy Committee. Current members of the Committee include: Sharon Alexander, 7319 Walnut Knoll Drive, Springfield, VA 22153 Chair; Elaine Anderson, Ron Daly, Leanor Johnson, Roger Rubin, and Cecelia Sudia.

Family Action Section

Minutes of the Family Action Section Business Meeting, October 16, 1982.

The meeting was called to order at 9:30 a.m. by Sharon Houseknecht, Chair, following a continental breakfast.

Minutes of the 1981 business meeting were reviewed by Ronald Pitzer and approved by the assembly.

The Treasurer's report was given by Ronald Pitzer. Balance on hand (12/31/81) was $1,239.08. Receipts for January through September 1982 were $426.00; expenditures were $696.79. This leaves a balance of $968.29 (9/30/82). This appears to be about on target since nearly 1/3 of members dues are due during the last quarter. It was pointed out that Family Action Section membership has declined by about 100 members since 1979, resulting in a "loss" of income of about $300 a year. Report approved.

Sharon Houseknecht began by reviewing this year's annual meeting program. In response to an action taken at the 1981 annual business meeting, a pre-conference workshop on "The Creation of Legislation" was offered (with Nancy Amidei, Patricia Langley and Rowan Wakefield as resource persons). Turnout was quite small. A "Special Event" was offered on Friday afternoon on "The Family as a Political Issue." This was a good session. A plenary session (panel) on "Aging American Families" represented the interests of the Aging Focus Group. In addition, the Family Action Section offered three panels, a symposium, three papers sessions (13 papers), a poster session (15 posters), and several coffee and luncheon roundtables.

Meetings were held during the conference by the following Focus Groups: Work and Family; Health Care and Family; Family Law; Religion and Families; Middle Years; Single Parent Families; Aging; Remarriage and Stepparenting; Marital Enrichment.

The theme for the 1983 NCFR annual meeting was reported by Sharon House-knecht — "Family Linkages: Energizing Connections." The tentative plan is to have four plenary sessions, followed by Section meetings related to the theme of the plenary.

Sharon Houseknecht reported on action taken by the NCFR Board of Directors (at the March Board meeting) which will permit the possibility for persons' names to be added to the ballot by petition. This development necessitated moving up the nominating process. Sharon appointed the following persons to serve as the Family Action Section Nominating Committee, subject to approval by the business meeting: Peter Stein (chair), Jane Hood, Elizabeth Menaghan, and G. C. Sponaugle. Margaret Feldman moved that this slate of candidates be approved. Kay Pasley seconded. Motion carried.

Concern was expressed about the low attendance at this business meeting. The prevailing belief was that a last-day-of-conference business meeting just doesn't work; that Section business meetings should be held early in the week. Bruce Ayars moved and Armin Grams seconded that the chair take this point into consideration when planning next year's program. Also urged by the assembly was the continued inclusion of poster sessions at the annual conference and the possibility of offering "open-mike" speak-out sessions.

Sharon Houseknecht briefly reviewed progress toward the three major 1982 goals for the Family Action Section offered at the 1981 business meeting.

A. To build the Family Action Section through the recruitment of new members.

Margaret Feldman and Anthony Jurich prepared a Family Action Section brochure, which has been turned over to James DeBurger, Family Action Section membership committee chair.

Membership in the Family Action Section (and other Sections) has declined sharply since 1979. In 1979, the Section had 407 members; in 1980, 340; in 1981, 321; in 1982, 306. The general conclusion was that this had resulted from the combination of an increase in NCFR dues and "economic hard times." Sharon urged all to work hard on membership.

Concern was also expressed about the composition of the Family Action Section. The belief was that the practitioners and activists who ought to comprise Family Action Section membership are not adequately represented.

B. To "unite" the Section by publication of a Section newsletter.

A quarterly newsletter was started by Sharon Houseknecht. The members were urged to use it — by reading it and acting on actions offered or proposed and by contributing to it.

C. To further the Section's major goal of promoting effective social policy/ social action.

A Public Policy Methods Committee (chaired by Lynda Walters) was appointed by the NCFR Board to clarify the relationship between the Family Action Section and the Public Policy Committee and to ascertain preferences of the NCFR membership regarding NCFR's taking positions on policy issues. Sharon Houseknecht serves on the committee. A report is being prepared.

Focus Groups

Focus Group reports are to be submitted for inclusion in the NCFR Newsletter. Three concerns regarding Focus Groups were expressed and action by appropriate bodies was urged. (1) Most Focus Groups want longer time periods at the NCFR annual meeting for talking together and brainstorming (even as much as four-hour time blocks). (2) Be sure meeting rooms for Focus Groups are large enough to accommodate 40-50 persons. (3) Continuity of leadership for Focus Groups is seen as a problem. It was suggested that "chair-elect" positions be established in the Focus Groups to ease new chairs into leadership.

The meeting was adjourned at 11:10.

Respectfully submitted,
Ronald L. Pitzer, Secretary-Treasurer

Focus Group on Single Parent Families, Family Action Section

The Single Parent Family Focus Group met in Washington, D.C. at the annual meeting of the National Council on Family Relations. Chair Joan Russell presided at the meeting, which was attended by 40 people.

The following issues pertaining to the single-parent family were discussed: (1) legal issues and the single-parent family; (2) need for re-education of the religious and medical communities and school systems of viability of single-parent family as a family form; and (3) need for support systems for single-parent family, particularly the teen parent.

The following goals were proposed for 1983: (1) maintain contact among members throughout the year by providing mailing lists and encouraging dissemination of information; (2) work toward the inclusion of a pre-conference workshop pertaining to single-parent issues; and (3) encourage development of a family law course in the curriculum of family programs.

Carol MacKinnon, a doctoral candidate at the University of Georgia, was selected as the new chair of the focus group. Her address is: Department of Child and Family Development, University of Georgia, Athens, GA 30602. Joan Russell will continue to be actively involved with the group. Others who volunteered to be a part of a core group working toward the attainment of our goals included Mary Lou Branson, Helen Cleminshaw, Shirley Hanson, Brenda Hayes Johnson, Tommie Owens, and Blaine Porter.

Middle Years Focus Group, Family Action Section

There were two meetings of the Middle Years Focus Group held in conjunction with the annual NCFR meeting in Washington, D.C. About 50 people attended, and attendance was better at the second meeting than the first. Perhaps people heard that it was an exciting meeting. Those present had a variety of interests in the middle years teaching and research, as well as people who were themselves in the middle years. In the discussions it was agreed that the group would make an effort to become more active. It was thought that there should be a newsletter which would contain abstracts, monographs, bibliographies, jokes, and articles of interest to those concerned with the middle years. It should not be an administrative paper listing workshops or calendar events. There was some brainstorming about topics and names; people indicated what they might contribute. It was also agreed that the possibility of a prize for teaching and/or research on the middle years would be investigated. A pre-convention workshop that would transmit skills in teaching in the middle years was discussed. Matti Gershenfeld agreed to prepare and submit a proposal for a pre-convention workshop on "Transition Stages for Women." It was also agreed that a proposal should be submitted for a Hyde Park Corner as a project of the Middle Years.

Finally, it was decided that Matti Gershenfeld would send those present a list of participants, a report of what we had agreed to, and some bibliographic materials on adult development and women. Martha Lambert asked to be relieved of her co-chair responsibilities for the Focus Group. She said that she would edit the newsletter and, of course, continue to be supportive.

In addition to the two Focus Group meetings, a symposium was presented on "Success in the Middle Years." Attendance was excellent (about 100).

Report submitted by: Matti Gershenfeld, Focus Group Chair, Pepper and Winter Roads, Rydal, PA 19046.

Health Care and Family Focus Group, Family Action Section

The Health Care and the Family Focus Group met two of last year's goals, namely, holding a panel at the 1982 NCFR meeting, and getting approval for a special issue of Family Relations, both on the topic of family and health care. Hamilton McCubbin and William Doherty will be guest editors for the special issue which will be published in January 1985.

At this year's Focus Group meeting, two new plans surfaced. The first is to plan a session for next year's NCFR meeting on family and health care research. A committee is putting together a proposal; contact Lisa Baker for details. The second idea is for a vehicle whereby members of the Focus Group can share their resources with each other. It appears that many of us have complementary needs (although perhaps not in Winch's sense). Some of us have concrete research strategies and instruments but lack broad-based samples or computer facilities. Others of us have access to interesting samples of families and would welcome the chance to collaborate with those who have clear research plans. There are many collaborative research efforts that none of us could carry out alone.

In order to facilitate this exchange of information about needs and resources, a very simple survey instrument has been drafted and sent to Focus Group members. It asks each person to list as specifically as possible the kinds of resources that they need. Bill Doherty will distribute the results of the survey to all of those who participate in it; anyone else who wants a copy of results can write to Bill for one.

One final note. Katrina Johnson, one of our "own" family people, is now with NIH in the Behavioral Medicine Branch of the National Heart, Lung, and Blood Institute. She told us at the Focus Group meeting that she would like to see more family and health research be funded by her institute. She invites inquiries about funding possibilities. Her new address is: Katrina Johnson, Behavioral Medicine Branch/NHLBI, Room 604, Federal Building, 7550 Wisconsin Avenue, Bethesda, MD 20205.

Report submitted by William Doherty, Focus Group Chair, Department of Family Relations, The University of Iowa, Oakdale, IA 52319.

Focus Group on Remarriage and Stepparenting, Family Action Section

This year 43 persons attended the informal session sponsored by the Focus Group on Remarriage and Stepparenting at the annual meeting of the National Council on Family Relations in Washington, D.C. (more than 100% increase over last year's attendance). We met for two hours and this time was used to review for participants the history of the Focus Group and its goals for the previous year, to present a summary of its accomplishments, and to plan for the following year. The goals for the previous year included: (a) facilitating the educational-informational process about this family form; (b) facilitating the "networking" process among professionals in various disciplines by sharing experiences, information, and "contacts."

The Focus Group cooperated in the preparation of a comprehensive bibliography on remarriage which was disseminated at this year's meeting. The co-chairs forwarded numerous referrals to participants as requests for information, etc., came to them. Further, Kay Pasley attended the Institute on Stepfamilies as part of the annual meeting of the American Orthopsychiatric Association meetings in April to meet and discuss common interests with another professional group. The Focus Group also requested that a special issue of Family Relations be committed to this topic. Editor Mike Sporakowski agreed, and a special issue entitled "Remarriage and Stepparenting" will be published in July 1984.

The group spent a good portion of its time meeting in four smaller sub-groups divided by general interest: counseling, research, education, and a combination of these (some folks did not want to commit themselves to a "specialty"). Members discussed their concerns, interests, and needs, and planned goals for the following year. Resulting from these subgroup meetings were the following goals: (a) Continue as a Focus Group sponsored by the Family Action Section: (b) Up-date the comprehensive bibliography and make it available to members upon request; (c) Facilitate additional "networking" through the preparation of a directory of members, including the interests, skills, and resources available to persons interested in remarriage and stepparenting; (d) Request additional time on the program of the NCFR 1983 meeting and develop some creative ways to use this time; and (e) Solicit symposia and/or panel proposals for submission to the various NCFR Sections for possible presentation at the next annual meeting.

Kay Pasley and Marilyn Ihinger-Tallman have agreed to continue in the role of cochairs for the Focus Group for another year. They will spearhead the projects and continue to facilitate the networking between interested participants. Their addresses are: Kay Pasley, College of Home Economics, Early Childhood Laboratories, Erikson Hall, University of Kentucky, Lexington, KY 40506-0050; and Marilyn Ihinger-Tallman, Department of Sociology, Washington State University, Pullman, WA 99164.

Focus Group on Aging, Family Action Section

The Family Action Section's Focus Group on Aging met on October 14, 1982 at the Shoreham Hotel, Washington, D.C. Armin Grams, co-chair, presided. Thirty-one persons attended and participated in the planning. Questions raised dealt primarily with (1) the role of the Focus on Aging Group; (2) the VIAA (Volunteers in Action for Aging) project of the National Council on Aging Section known as NVOILA — National Voluntary Organizations for Independent Living for the Aging and NCFR's participation in this project; (3) a plan of action for the Focus Group.

The group recognized the number and quality of sessions in the program of this meeting and urged similar representation in next year's program.

Margaret Slingerlend, liaison for NCFR with NVOILA and Barbara Chandler, former liaison described NCOA/NVOILA and VIAA and called for suggestions. Margaret Slingerlend will present to the NCFR Board of Directors for their approval whatever plan-of-action is agreed upon by the Focus on Aging Group since this group is the logical unit for providing leadership and support for this important activity.

The following plan of action for the Focus on Aging Group developed from the discussion and recommendations:

- 1. Program at the 1983 NCFR convention in St. Paul: (a) Plenary sessions representatives of different Sections relating to central topic about aging and families; (b) Co-sponsored meetings with other Sections and focus groups; (c) Round tables; (d) Workshop type sessions about projects and activities that have worked; (e) Research reports from members of the Focus Group; (f) "Coffee and Conversation" activity for Focus on Aging Members and other interested potential members.
- 2. Communication: (a) Focus on Aging information will be sent to NCFR and Family Action Newsletters; (b) Mail a summary of the October 14th meeting to Focus on Aging members who came to the meeting, a list of names and addresses of persons attending, and a questionnaire requesting pertinent information about themselves and others who are potential members.
- 3. Take leadership role for NCFR in working with NCOA/NVOILA: (a) Provide backup and support for NCFR's liaison to NCOA, etc.; (b) Inform membership of NCFR about VIAA activity through newsletters and Annual Meeting; (c) Distribute to Focus on Aging mailing list (with forwarding memo signed by the co-chairs and the liaison officer): 1) information about VIAA and NCOA/NVOILA; 2) a list of the 230 NVOILA organizations and any readily available information about their projects; materials available from NCOA/NVOILA; (d) Mail to NVOILA organizations (230) (with forwarding memo signed by the NCFR president, focus co-chairs and referring to liaison by name. Indicate that Margaret Slingerlend presented plan to NCFR Board and obtained their adoption and approval): 1) information about NCFR; 2) information about the Family Resource and Referral Center; 3) NCFR plan of action and invitation to draw on resources; 4) information about COFO and invitation to subscribe; (e) Participate on NCPA Program at their Annual Meeting in March in Detroit; (f) Distribute during the year to both networks a Fact Sheet type publication with information about a concern of elders which can be used by both groups (one example that was suggested by the group: Loneliness).

Focus group co-chairs are Armin Grams, Living/Learning Center C-150, Terrill Hall, University of Vermont, Burlington, VT 05401, and Lou Isbell, Department of Child and Family Development, University of Missouri and Lincoln University, 14 Gwynn Hall, Columbia, MO 65211.

Research and Theory Section

During the 1982 NCFR Annual Meeting the Research and Theory Section presented the Reuben Hill Award fo. Outstanding Research and Theory Article, 1981, to Carlton A. Hornung, B. Claire McGuilough, and Taichi Sugimoto. Their article, "Status Relationships in Marriage: Risk Factors in Spouse Abuse," appeared in the August 1981 issue of Journal of Marriage and the Family. The article is based on a research program on status relationships and status inconsistency in relation to family life being conducted by the University of South Carolina researchers.

The Reuben Hill Award is presented annually to the article that best combines theory and methodology in the analysis and interpretation of a significant marriage or family issue. The criteria for selection include conceptual and theoretical clarity, methodological soundness, quality of interpretation and discussion, and style of writing and presentation. The award includes a certificate and $500 check. A committee of 17 professionals surveyed journals in the field for outstanding articles, as well as scrutinizing articles nominated by authors or peers. The selection committee was chaired by Patricia Voydanoff from the Center for the Study of Family Development, University of Dayton, Dayton, OH 45469. Members of the committee include: Karen Altergott, Nancy Buerkel-Rothfuss, Kathleen Campbell, Thomas Cornille, Jo Lynn Cunningham, Martin Denker, Richard Galligan, Anthony Jurich, Jean Edmonson Kleber, David M. Klein, Ralph LaRossa, Geoffrey Leigh, Helen Mederer, Joan Patterson, Gary Peterson, Jay Schvaneveldt, Maximiliane Szinovacz, Nancy Sederberg, Darwin Thomas, and Jacqueline Wiseman.

International Section

1982 Business Meeting, International Section

After mingling over sweet rolls, orange juice and coffee from 7:30 a.m., Hyman Rodman, Section Chair, convened the business meeting at 7:50. The 19 people attending introduced themselves. Participants were from 7 nations. Hy began by thanking various people who had helped organize this year's sessions and activities of the Section, including officers Wilfried Dumon, Vice Chair, and Karen Altergott, Secretary/Treasurer, Jan Trost for assistance with the newsletter, Dianne Kieren and John Peters for serving on the nominating committee, Bron Ingoldsby, the new membership co-chair, as well as panel organizers and those who presented.

The secretary/treasurer was asked to provide the treasurer's report and to report on membership and the newsletter.

Expenditures of $299.58 (travel to a Board meeting for the chair and telephone calls by the chair), and receipts of $309.00 from membership dues received were reported for the period from January through September. This leaves a balance of $608.80. Furthermore, a small allocation had been provided by NCFR to facilitate international participation in sessions.

The membership co-chairs reported their efforts. Membership is 140, with 30 from countries other than the U.S. Karen Altergott suggested use of the newsletter to inform relevant groups of the International Section of NCFR. Several people suggested groups: Committee on Family Research (ISA), Family Section of the American Sociological Association, NCFR members who are not currently International Section members, the International Academy of Housing Science. Bron Ingoldsby suggested a merger between the Ethnic Minorities Section under the broader rubric of Comparative Family. Several people spoke against this suggestion, since the purposes of the Ethnic Minorities Section are considered quite different and the merger would require a shift in focus for both groups. The proposal of widely distributing a sample newsletter was supported by several. Robert Rapoport suggested the creation of a new membership category - organizational members. Ideas regarding membership such as this should be forwarded to the officers.

The newsletter, it was reported, was distributed with a questionnaire to assess interests in international work. Twelve people responded. The newsletter will continue to be used to communicate about international research, positions, interests in travel for academic purposes, publications etc., of our members.

Next, the nominating committee reported on the slate for upcoming elections. Since NCFR has adopted a policy of additional nominations from the membership and will publish an initial slate in December, the early completion of our slate is advantageous. Elections will be in March. Nominated by the committee were: Bron Ingoldsby and Gary Lee for Chair; Christine Oppong and Karen Altergott (declined) for Vice Chair; and Ramona Marotz-Baden for Secretary-Treasurer.

Bron Ingoldsby then reported on the travel possibilities for a research and/or policy related group tour. Without specific substantive tours in mind, Bron requested group rates from Cleveland to London and Cleveland to Uppsala. A two-week England tour, which could be modified to meet the group's research interests, would cost $1,163.00, for example. Several people mentioned the tourist-orientation of the package, but Bron indicated the very tentative nature of the plans. Suggestions or expressions of interest in this travel should be sent to the newsletter editor, since the newsletter is to be used for communication about international opportunities.

Robert Rapoport announced the publication of Families in Britain, with about 25 British scholars as contributors. This would identify a potential pool of institutes and individuals to visit with on an International Section trip. This invitation/suggestion may encourage people to at least explore the possibility of travel.

Hy Rodman turned to the discussion of the 1983 meetings. No theme for those meetings has been identified. A plenary session with representatives from family organizations, such as International Union of Family Organizations, Family Forum in England, a Family Office in Australia, the National Committee for the Defense of Children (PRC) and others, was suggested by Hy Rodman. Maximiliane Szinovacz suggested a set of international speakers on the theme of the conference.

Hy Rodman invited people to send him suggestions regarding session topics for the 1983 meetings. Sessions related or unrelated to the overall annual meeting theme will be considered. Discussion of other business was brief, since a scheduled panel was convening in our meeting room.

The meeting ended at 8:30 a.m.
Respectfully submitted,
Karen Altergott, Secretary/Treasurer

Hyman Rodman, Section Chair, Family Research Center, University of North Carolina-Greensboro, Greensboro, NC 27412, has established a Committee on International Scholarly Exchange, consisting of Maximiliane Szinovacz (chair) and Eugen Lupri. The Committee's major task will be to provide useful information about possibilities for scholarly exchange.

ncfr family resource/referral center

Within each state there are the intricacies of networks and consortia, both formal and informal which create a maze of information sources. One of our projects this year is to conduct a survey in order to identify libraries and other repositories, e.g., archives, collections, etc., where family-related resources may be found on the local level. Since NCFR members are more likely to be aware of where these materials are than any other group, I invite you to participate in this project.

Manual searchers as well as those using automated systems will benefit from this information. Since the NCFR Family Resources Database service does not include document delivery or full-text retrieval, identifying source locations will be very helpful to users of our online database.

The objective of this survey is to identify source location only, i.e., the name and mailing address of each repository identified. Once we receive that information, we will contact the sources for more detailed information such as hours, public access, number of holdings, special collections, staff and services. The end result of this effort will be the development of a guide tentatively entitled Guide to Family Resources.

You are our best source of information. Since the success of this project hinges largely on your cooperation, I urge (beg) you to return the form enclosed in this Newsletter as quickly as possible. If you are an educator, you may wish to make multiple copies of the form and pass them out to your classes. If you work in an agency, etc., the forms could be distributed at staff meetings. Please share forms with non-NCFR members you know. If your information is incomplete, please send it in anyway. We'll do the rest. Your contribution is important! Thank you.

There will be two miniworkshops, research paper sessions and roundtable luncheons. Registration is $20 on or before April 15, and $25 after. Abstracts (200-300 words) of research papers or roundtable topics and registration requests should be sent to: Geoffrey Leigh, Department of Home Economics, 219 Macbride Hall, The University of Iowa, Iowa City, IA 52242....President of the Iowa Council is Douglas Stephens, 1234 47th Street, Des Moines, IA 50311.

Indiana: "Changing Agents for Changing Families," was the theme of this year's annual ICFR meeting in Indianapolis on February 22. Keynote speaker was Matti Gershenfeld, past president of the Pennsylvania Council. Other features included movie previews, a book exhibit, and a teachers' material resource exchange....President of the Indiana Council is Wallace Denton, Child Development and Family Studies Building, Purdue University, West Lafayette, IN 47907.

Michigan: The Michigan Council has set purposes which other chapters might consider: TO ACT as a coordinating organization for those working with or interested in families; TO PROVIDE an opportunity for all organizations and individuals in the state, interested in marriage and family life, to learn of each others' work, exchange ideas and discuss matters of mutual concern; TO STIMULATE AND ENCOURAGE study and research in the field of family relations; TO WORK TOGETHER to support leadership of both public and private agencies at work in this field. TO FURTHER wholesome family relationships with a view to strengthening the family in a changing culture....Council president is Margaret Bubolz, 922 Michigan, East Lansing, MI 48823.

Minnesota: The Ruth Hathaway Jewson Award for distinguished service to the discipline of the family was presented to Ruth Jewson at the recent MCFR annual meeting and will carry her name permanently. The annual MCFR-MHEA Family Life Education Workshop, with Richard Hey as chair, will be held April 22. The Rural Family Conference, on the theme of Economics and Its Impact on Rural Families will meet May 18-19 in Alexandria, Minnesota. It will be co-sponsored by the Extension Service. President of MCFR is J. Richard Fowler, Judson Family Center, 4104 Harriet Avenue South, Minneapolis, MN 55409.

Nebraska: The Nebraska Council is sponsoring "A Spring Gathering for Family Professionals" March 23 at the Omaha Marriott Hotel. Elaine Sullivan, family therapist, will be featured. A NeCFR breakfast and business meeting will be held May 27 during the Nebraska Symposium on Building Family Strengths. A major NeCFR sponsored event in October will be a "Forum on Work and Families." In March the Council plans to introduce a newsletter. President is Patricia Kain Knaub, Department of Human Development and the Family, University of Nebraska, Lincoln, NE 68583.

New Jersey: The fourth Annual Conference of the New Jersey Council will be held in October 1983. The theme is expected to be "Family Stress and Adaptation." The January Newsletter featured genetic counseling. Ethel Pickett is publications coordinator....President is Robert A. Famighetti, Gerontology Department, Kean College, Morris Avenue, Union, NJ 07083. Karen Todd is president-elect.

North Dakota: A new North Dakota Chapter is being organized. Persons interested in helping should contact David Dosser, CDFR, 155 Home Economics Building, North Dakota State University, Fargo, ND 58105.

Oklahoma: The new president of the Oklahoma Council is Alexis Walker, School of Human Development, University of Oklahoma, Norman, OK 73019. President-elect is David Fournier. Plans are in progress for the annual meeting in Oklahoma City at the Church of the Servant on April 8, to be held jointly with the Oklahoma Association for the Education of Young Children.

Rocky Mountain: The Rocky Mountain Council along with the Association for Childhood Education International and the Metropolitan State College sponsored a two-day conference on "Strengthening Families" in October. President of the Rocky Mountain Council is Eugenia H. Berger, Metropolitan State College, 6115 South Longview Street, Littleton, CO 80120. Judith Pearlman is president-elect. The annual Rocky Mountain Spring Conference will be held at Colorado State University on April 9 and will be co-sponsored by the Ft. Collins chapter of the American Association of University Women and the Interfaith Parenting Task Force. The theme is "Families and Work: People, Productivity and Profits." The tentative program includes a panel of representatives from business and industry discussing family-oriented policies and benefits, such as flextime, relocation practices, "cafeteria" benefits and child care assistance.

Stout: President of the Stout Council on Family Relations is Lynn Slinger, 234 Frogatt, Menomonie, WI 54751. Lisa Weisenfel is president-elect. A workshop, "Transitions Into Aging," was held October 22. Secretary Julie Rempett writes that there is rapid and growing enrollment in the club.

Texas: The Texas Council annual conference, "Family Environments," is set for April 21-22 at the Ft. Worth Hilton. President of the Council is Britton Wood, Broadway Baptist Church, 305 West Broadway, Ft. Worth, TX 76104. President-elect is Julian Bridges of Hardin-Simmons University in Abilene.

Wisconsin: President of the Wisconsin Council is Pamela Kemp, School of Home Economics, University of Wisconsin-Stevens Point, Stevens Point, WI 54481. Presidentelect is Romona Powers. On November 5-6. the council co-sponsored an annual meeting with the Wisconsin Home Economics Association (districts B and D). The theme was "Maximizing Human Potential: Family Wellness." Senator William Bablitch of Stevens Point was one of the speakers. An experimental portion of the program was "Family Scenarios," improvisations enacting scenarios that portrayed current concerns of families. Included were skits about single parenting, dual careers, intergenerational conflicts and sexuality. Members of the UW-Stevens Point Players presented the scenes. The WCFR is computerizing its mailing list, which will enable them to operate more efficiently.

New Section Proposed

It is proposed that a new Section titled "Religion and Family Life" be added to the National Council on Family Relations. The organization of such a Section would allow NCFR members and other interested parties the opportunity to dialogue about matters of common interest pertaining to religion and family life.

NCFR members supporting the enclosed petition are invited to sign the enclosed form on page 22 of the Newsletter. Signatures of 5% of the current NCFR membership (approximately 250) are needed to present the petition to the governing Board of NCFR.

Joseph B. Henry: The Rev. Joseph B. Henry died recently in Arcadia, California, at the age of 81. He was an ordained minister of the Evangelical United Brethren Church and the United Theological Seminary; and at the time of his death he was serving as a minister of visitation. In addition to holding several pastorates, he had been an assistant director in charge of premarital counseling and the public education program at the American Institute of Family Relations. His book on marital counseling, Fulfillment in Marriage, was published in 1966. He is survived by his wife and three children. Memorials may be sent to the Dr. Joseph B. Henry Scholarship Fund, c/o The Barnhart School, 226 West Colorado Boulevard, Arcadia, CA 91006.

Jane Hoyer Pfouts: Jane Hoyer Pfouts, Ph.D., died suddenly on November 7, 1982. Mrs. Pfouts was born in Louisville, Kentucky, on August 30, 1921. She earned her undergraduate degree from St. Mary's College in Indiana in 1943, her M.S. in personnel administration from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill in 1952, her M.S.W. from UNC-CH in 1959, and her Ph.D. from UNC-CH in 1974. She was a professor at the UNC-CH School of Social Work at the time of her death, having been a faculty member there for twelve years. She was a specialist in family interaction. Among her many publications were articles on child and wife abuse, on the impact of birth order on personality, and on sibling interaction. She was a social worker at North Carolina Memorial Hospital from 1963 to 1968 and held an appointment as instructor in the department of psychiatry at the UNC School of Medicine from 1965 to 1968. Mrs. Pfouts was a member of the National Council on Family Relations, the National Association of Social Workers, the Council on Social Work Education, and the American Sociological Association. She was the beloved wife of R. William (Bill) Pfouts and mother of Elizabeth, Susan Portman, James and Thomas. Contributions may be sent to the Jane Hoyer Pfouts Fund, School of Social Work, The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, 223 East Franklin Street, Chapel Hill, NC 27514. Funds received will be used to support research about Families and Children.

Gerald W. McDonald (1948-1983): Our friend and colleague, Gerald W. McDonald, was killed when he was struck by a falling tree while cutting firewood on January 30, 1983. His death profoundly shocked all of his many friends who knew him as "Gerry" and dismayed those who knew, through his work, the deep loss to the field of marriage and the family.

Gerry was a native of Madison County, Alabama. He held bachelor's and master's degrees from the University of Alabama, and a doctorate from the University of Utah. He taught briefly at Jacksonville State University and then went to the University of Minnesota to pursue post-doctoral studies with Reuben Hill and Robert Leik. He joined the Sociology Department at Florida State University in 1977 and was promoted to Associate Professor and tenured in 1980. He had served as co-director of the Interdivisional Doctoral Program in Marriage and the Family, at FSU, since 1979.

Gerry received considerable recognition and honors in his brief career. He served as Associate Editor of the Journal of Marriage and the Family, Journal of Family Issues, and the Sage Monograph Series. He was named an Outstanding Young Man of America in 1979. He received the FSU Department of Sociology Award for Outstanding Teacher in 1981, which spoke fittingly of the warm and considerate attention he gave his students. In 1982, he received the FSU Developing Scholar Award which testified to the excellence and promise of his research and writing. Gerry was an active and highly respected member of the National Council on Family Relations in which he served on a number of committees including the Resource Committee for the White House Conference on Families and the Public Relations Committee.

Gerry began his research career with a study of adolescent perceptions of parental power in the family. In contrast to sex-role theories of identification, his evidence supported the idea that the more power a parent is perceived to have, the higher the degree of adolescent identification with the parent. This became his doctoral dissertation and led also to a number of theoretical essays and empirical articles. Gerry's insightful and meticulous research on the way power is distributed in the family (not simply the married couple) stands as a highly original contribution to an otherwise narrowly focused area. The strength of his work in this area led to an invitation to write the review of research on family power for the 1980 "decade review" issue of Journal of Marriage and the Family. In the review article, Gerry mapped several critical research and theoretical strategies for a systematic investigation of marital and family power. He was preparing, this Spring, to pre-test a questionnaire that put some of these strategies into operation.

Another significant contribution was Gerry's work on family policy. His interest in this quite current topic developed through his post-doctoral study with Reuben Hill and continued with his collaboration with F. Ivan Nye at FSU. The special issue of Journal of Marriage and the Family on "Family Policy," co-edited by McDonald and Nye was published as a book and brought him widespread recognition. It is in this area of family policy that Gerry's humanistic concerns with family well-being and quality of life are most apparent.

Gerry's publications also included a text, Marriage and the Family with Gilbert Nass, several chapters in edited volumes and numerous papers in Journal of Marriage and the Family, Family Relations, Youth and Society, and other sociological journals. One of his most recent papers, on the conceptualization and measurement of jealousy in courtship and marriage, is also certain to be a ground breaker in the field. There is no need to go on at length about how good his work in fact was. By this time in his career Gerry had become a scholar with a national reputation.

Such are the outlines of his professional and scholarly career. The personal qualities that enriched and inspired the lives of those around him are more difficult to express. Very simply, Gerry McDonald had a unique and tremendous gift for loving friendship. Colleagues knew they could confide in him and find not only empathy but a cheerful willingness to go out of his way to help. Students cherished his generosity, patience, and inevitable good humor. Gerry's wit — bawdy, irreverant, often directed toward himself — lit up the halls of our department. His friendships spanned all walks of life, levels of society, and age.

Gerry's sudden death was not easy for his colleagues and friends to accept in any rational way. We still expect to hear his boots clicking down the hall as he sang some bit of a country-western ballad. His love of people, his loyalty, and his integrity infused all who came to know him. He left us memories of fun, warmth and brightness that nothing can blemish or wear away.

In honor of his memory, a scholarship fund has been established. Contributions can be made to the FSU Foundation, Gerald McDonald Fund, c/o Paula Fortunas, Florida State University, Tallahassee, FL 32306.

He is survived by his wife, Vicky Savage, of Tallahassee, a five-month old daughter, Jessica Savage McDonald, of Tallahassee, and his parents, Gordon and Ruby McDonald, of Huntsville, Alabama.

student news and views

It's time to plan for the fall meeting in St. Paul. I am sure many of you have already begun by submitting proposals to the various Sections. As Dr. Hicks pointed out in the December Newsletter, there are several options for participation in the program. We strongly encourage you to get involved.

If you have never attended an Annual Meeting of NCFR, why don't you make St. Paul your first? We especially want to extend this invitation to students in the Minneapolis-St. Paul area. Because of your location, you have an opportunity that many in the rest of the country may miss. You will find NCFR to be an open and supportive professional organization. There are also some very nice people there. This invitation is for undergraduates as well as graduate students.

At the meeting there are various jobs that need to be done. These tasks have been offered to students as compensation for registration. We need people for registration, the employment service, and other responsibilities. If you are interested, please contact Kevin Donohue, U-117, HDFR, University of Connecticut, Storrs, CT 06268, or Dick Morley, Dawson Hall, University of Georgia, Athens, GA 30602, your student reps to the NCFR Board.

As student representatives one of our goals is to build a better relationship between students and NCFR. In order to make NCFR more relevant for the students, we want to encourage the formation of campus student organizations associated with NCFR. Such organizations would provide better access for us as national representatives to students, as well as a means to facilitate professional identity in the student.

As national student representatives there is a level of isolation with which we must contend. Campus student organizations would provide a means by which we could lessen this isolation. Through such organizations, information could be gathered and shared that would give us, as student representatives, a broader perspective.

A campus organization associated with NCFR would also provide an avenue for stronger professional identity for the student. We believe this is particularly important for students in family and child or human development programs. We hope these student groups would be active in their state and regional NCFR affiliated councils. The profession identity would come from an association with people in the field. We see this as profitable for graduate students, but there would seem to be an even greater need for undergraduates.

The organization of such a student group could be facilitated by a faculty member or the students themselves. We are looking forward to building a national network of these student groups over the next several years. If you have already formed a group, please contact us. We would be interested in how you organized and how we could support you.

Dick Morley, Junior Student and Young Professional Representative to the NCFR Board

The Journal of Primary Prevention announces preparation of a Special Issue on Primary Prevention and the Family. The family, as a primary group, serves an important societal role in socializing and caring for its members. In recent years, and in striking contrast to a long history of neglect, professionals, special interest groups, government, lay groups, and religious organizations have come to focus on the importance of "prevention efforts" surrounding the role of the family. Recognizing that the primary tools of prevention include competency promotion, community or group organization, education and natural caregiving, the Journal is announcing a call for papers for a special issue on "Primary Prevention and the Family." The issue will focus on illustrative research articles, conceptual theoretical treatises, program formulation and evaluation, or analytic review papers which address each of the four primary prevention tools within a family setting or context. Examples of acceptable areas include techniques of enhancing family relations, communication, or effective functioning, policy efforts designed to prevent family related problems. family adaptability and functioning, the use and functions of family as a natural caregiving group, etc. Special Issue Editors are Gerald R. Adams and Jay D. Schvaneveldt. Manuscripts (in triplicate using APA style) are being solicited for this special issue and should be sent by September 15, 1983 to either Editor, Department of Family and Human Development, Utah State University, UMC 29, Loqan, UT 84322.

Platform: I deeply value the extent to which NCFR has included students in every level of the organization. As students and young professionals dealing with the same issue of professional identity that our seniors are experiencing, the opportunities afforded by participation in NCFR can go a long way in generating our sense of involvement with our profession. Participation is also an opportunity to develop leadership potential. These characteristics of NCFR need to be both encouraged and guarded.

If elected, I will work to support: (1) continued involvement of students (both graduate and undergraduate) and young professionals in the Annual Meeting; (2) the establishment of student representation on the Annual Meeting Program Committee; (3) special sessions at the Annual Meeting that address issues relevant to students and young professionals; and, (4) the continuation of the non-academic job workshop at the Annual Meeting.

Smith, Dwayne. (1) Ph.D. student in the Department of Family and Child Ecology at Michigan State University. (3) Presented paper at NCFR Annual Meeting.

Platform: Hello, I'm Dwayne Smith. I am a third year Ph.D. student in the Department of Family and Child Ecology at Michigan State University. My involvement here at M.S.U. has included experience in teaching and extensive work in family research. I have been involved with three research projects during my time here at the university, and I am presently working with a regional project on Family Stress and Crisis in the Middle Years. At the 1982 NCFR conference I made my first research presentation of a paper on the relationship of marital consensus to quality of family life.

I have been a NCFR student member for approximately two years. In that time, my most significant involvement has been in directing a committee for the development of student internships for persons in the family social science field. This is work I plan to continue in the future.

I believe two major issues face students in our field at the present time: Identity and Jobs. First, too many students of the family are presently finding it difficult to articulate for others who they are as professionals and as scholars. Wesley Burr, in his 1982 NCFR Presidential Address, very helpfully confronted this issue with his suggestion that Famology be recognized as a discipline in its own right. If chosen to represent you, I would support such endeavors, as well as other similar efforts (i.e. the certification of Family Life Educators). Secondly, I believe that leaders in our field, including students, need to give much more serious attention to making our degrees more marketable, not only in academic settings, but in business and industry, in the health care field, and in branches of government. If chosen to serve as your student and young professional representative, many of my efforts will be directed toward this challenge.

PROPOSAL FOR FORMATION OF A NEW SECTION IN NCFR

Suggested Title: Religion and Family Life

Purpose:

- (1) It is evident to many current members of NCFR that a substantial number of us are involved in various family life programs with religious organizations or denominations. It would be helpful to have a common forum through an NCFR Section to share thoughts and ideas on what is occurring in religion and family life. At the 1982 October Conference of NCFR in Washington, D.C., we had approximately 200 people attend a meeting on this very topic.
- (2) Historically, religion has had a vested interest in marriage and family life. The objectives of NCFR would likely be promoted by facilitating discussions among individuals or groups working in or through religious organizations.
- (3) Many people look first to religious leaders or denominations for help or direction on marriage and family matters. Religious organizations, therefore, have tremendous potential for outreach programs in marriage and family life. If NCFR could team up or provide some leadership for many of the current programs being sponsored by religious groups, perhaps all could benefit from the exchange.

MEMBER PREFERENCE SURVEY FOR CHANGE OF DATE FOR ANNUAL MEETING

The Site Selection Committee for Annual Meetings, in cooperation with the NCFR Board of Directors, is considering a possible change of dates for future NCFR conferences (after 1985). However, member preferences need to be known before a final decision can be made.

October is the month in highest demand for conferences. This means competition for available dates and facilities makes sleeping rooms and other hotel costs for meeting rooms some of the highest for any month of the year. Summer months offer the lowest cost rates. However, some fall and spring months offer rates that could lower costs by 10-20% for sleeping rooms and other conference costs.
