Well-being of Children and Youth in Families and Communities

Judith Fischer, Texas Tech University,
Program Chair

How do family professionals understand the well-being of family members who are children and adolescents? For the 2013 conference, I would like to bring together all of us (researchers, practitioners and program evaluators, policy makers, community members, etc.) to examine the well-being of child and adolescent family members. The multidimensional concept of well-being is associated with individual characteristics, family and social contexts, political and historical contexts, and their interactions. The conference should empower and inform participants to take the next steps to better understand and enhance the well-being of children and adolescents, and, in turn, their families and communities. Confirmed speakers include a children's civil rights attorney, a physician and community activist/organizer, a researcher on LGBT and minority youth. A confirmed special session explores a community-based residential program for at-risk children in Honduras.

MAJOR SESSIONS

The following speakers are confirmed.

Deanna Pollard Sacks, J.D., L.L.M. Professor of Law,
Texas Southern University (plenary)

America Bracho, M.D., M.P.H., Executive Director, Latino
Health Access, Santa Ana, California (plenary)

Stephen T. Russell, Professor and Interim Director,
Norton School of Family and Consumer Sciences,
University of Arizona (plenary)

Kristin Moore, Ph.D., Senior Scholar, Child Trends
(plenary)

Dudley Chancey, Professor of Youth and Family Ministry,
Oklahoma Christian University (special session)

Their presentations are in planning; watch for titles and details early in 2013.

Submit a proposal...

Information about the 2013 Call for Proposals will be available on the NCFR website approximately November 10, 2012. All submissions will be submitted electronically.

Deadline for submission is March 1, 2013.

Welcome to the 2012 NCFR Conference

Objectives of the NCFR Annual Conference

- To provide a forum to disseminate family research
- To share effective and evidence-based practice applications for direct family service
- To promote the CFLE credential and its educational and preventive approach to working with families
- To discuss policy implications of family research and how to inform decision-makers
- To promote the professional development of its membership, through participation in NCFR governance and by offering opportunities for continuing education units (CEUs) for credentialing

The NCFR Mission

To provide an educational forum for family researchers, educators, and practitioners to share in the development and dissemination of knowledge about families and family relationships, establish professional standards, and work to promote family well-being.

2012 Conference Theme: “Families and Health”

Program Chair:
Leigh Leslie, Ph.D.,
University of Maryland

The World Health Organization defines health as “a state of complete physical, mental, and social well-being.” As a discipline, we have long been focused on the mental and social foundations of health. The theme of the 2012 conference encourages us to also explore the multitude of ways in which the physical aspects of health are relevant to our understanding of well-being for children, families, and communities.

At the substantive level, the conference will address critical questions such as what is “family health” and how do we promote it through our research, interventions, and policy? At the discipline level, we will engage the question of how do we, as family scientists, interface with the health disciplines.

NCFR thanks the following sponsors for their contributions to the 2012 Annual Conference

2012 Proposal Reviewers

One of the strengths of the NCFR Annual Conference is the concurrent sessions sponsored by the sections. Proposals are blind reviewed by three or more peer reviewers from the section to which the proposal was submitted. The reviewers' role is key to ensuring that conference presentations are of the highest quality for a rich, rewarding, and stimulating conference experience.

Presenters: Loren Marks, Ph.D., Louisiana State Univ.; Annette Mahoney, Ph.D., Bowling Green State Univ.; Frank Fincham, Ph.D., Florida State Univ.; Nicholas H. Wolfinger, Ph.D., Univ. of Utah

Presider: Loren Marks

Religious participation produces better relationships. Using national data from the Fragile Families and Child Wellbeing study, We show how the effects of regular church attendance on relationship satisfaction varies by sex and marital status. Additional analysis seeks to explain the association between religious participation and relationship satisfaction on the basis of several factors: pro-marriage attitudes, a lifestyle characterized by temperance and employment, and supportive behaviors within the relationship. Finally, individuals in unmarried relationships who attend church frequently are significantly more likely to get married. The goals of this presentation are threefold. The first is to identify a religious behavior, prayer, with potential implications for health. Second, the presenter's research program on the impact of colloquial, intercessory prayer on individual and marital well-being will be summarized. Third, valuable future research directions that might explain how prayer impacts health will be offered.

Womb to Womb: The Persisting Influence of Health Disparities Across the Lifecourse

The Intersection of Health Disparities and Infant Mortality

Glenna Barnes, Ph.D., North Carolina A & T Univ.

Health Disparities in Children With Special Needs

Deborah Coehlo, Ph.D., Juniper Ridge Clinic

A myriad of factors have been found to impact the health outcomes of African Americans adult. Past research has documented the association between factors such as racial discrimination, romantic relationship quality, and parenting and health outcomes (Wickrama, Lorenz, & Conger, 1997). Little, however, is known about the effects of such predictors on African American emerging adult health outcomes and health risk behavior. Guided by developmental and life course perspectives, the four papers in this session explore various predictors on health outcomes and health risk behavior of African American emerging adults.

UNIVERSITY OF MARYLAND SCHOOL OF PUBLIC HEALTH DEPARTMENT OF FAMILY SCIENCE

Located just 8 miles from the nation's capital, the Department of Family Science offers 4 programs: Ph.D.'s in Maternal & Child Health and Family Science, M.S. Couple & Family Therapy, B.S. Family Science. The Family Science program provides interdisciplinary training in research, theory, policy and practice relevant to the health and well-being of families in contemporary society. Unique aspects of our training include: a focus on family health and well-being, engagement with culturally diverse populations, research opportunities with NIH and other federal agencies, clinical couple and family therapy, and work in public policy settings. The Department houses the Center for Healthy Families, which provides training and research for the Couple & Family Therapy master's program, and the Center on Young Adult Health and Development, the first U.S. dedicated center to understanding the health and development of young adults.

The Department of Family Science has a long history of involvement in NCFR, including participation in leadership roles (President, Program Chair, Section Chair, Board Member), annual strong presence with the conference program, and an active student chapter, Maryland Council of Family Relations (MCFR).

Meta-analysis

Michael Borenstein, Ph.D. (with Larry Hedges, Julian Higgins, and Hannah Rothstein)

Meta-analysis is the process of synthesizing information from a series of studies. As such, it provides the information needed for evidence-based practice. This workshop will address the following topics:

- What is a meta-analysis?
- How can I perform a meta-analysis?
- Computing a summary effect
- Addressing dispersion in effects across studies
- Fixed-effect and random-effects models
- Does it make sense to combine results from studies that employed different populations or techniques (“Apples and Oranges”)?
- What are the common mistakes people make in meta-analysis? Why has meta-analysis been called “The wave of the future”? Why have meta-analysts been compared to terrorists?
- What does meta-analysis have in common with Gary Larson (The Far-Side)?

The workshop will be presented by Michael Borenstein, the author (with Larry Hedges, Julian Higgins, and Hannah Rothstein) of Introduction to Meta-Analysis which has been at the top of the Amazon list for meta-analysis since its publication in 2009.

Co-parenting Measurement

Presenter: Sarah Schoppe-Sullivan, Ph.D.

Coparenting, a reflection of the extent to which parents successfully coordinate their parenting roles and responsibilities, has become a popular subject of research in recent years because of its established links with children's well-being and father involvement. This workshop will cover popular conceptualizations of coparenting as well as the most widely-used measures of this construct, highlighting strengths and weaknesses. The central focus will be on observational measures of coparenting: how to collect observational data, options in coding these data, and rewards and challenges of employing observational assessment of coparenting alone and in conjunction with self-reports. This is an ideal workshop for scholars who want to expand their measurement of coparenting or incorporate assessment of coparenting into other studies of couples, parents, and children.

Sarah Schoppe-Sullivan, Ph.D., teaches in the Department of Human Development & Family Studies, Ohio State University.

Plenary Sponsor

The Department of Human and Community Development creates research, teaching and outreach programs that focus on positive human development, family resiliency and thriving communities. Our department addresses significant societal issues, using advanced quantitative and qualitative methods, fostering collaborative and collegial interactions, and serving scientific leadership roles.

A Focus on Significant Societal Issues. Our work is “science with a social conscience.” Faculty are interested in the most challenging scientific issues, but they always ask how they can make a difference.

Advanced Methods in Unique Laboratory Facilities. Faculty and graduate students are engaged in developing and mastering the most sophisticated quantitative and qualitative methods and practicing these skills in state-of-the-art laboratories.

Collaborative and Collegial Interactions. Professor Isabel Bevier, a pioneering scientist in 1900, noted that the wide-open Illinois prairie provided “no boundaries” and this characterized the faculty’s intellectual orientation as well. Our faculty work across disciplines, programs, methodologies, and they work with colleagues across settings, departments and institutions.

Faculty with Major Scientific Leadership Roles. Our faculty are not only excellent scholars, but they are also leaders in the scientific community through serving as officers in professional societies, giving invited lectures at major national meetings and at universities across the world, and serving as editors of major journals.

Big Opportunities in a Small Community

Why I attend the annual conference

I get to hear a lot of ideas that stimulate my thinking and add to what I’m working on. The most important parts of NCFR are the conference and the journals. These are the leading journals in my area, and they are the journals where we aspire to have our work published. Joe Pittman, Ph.D., Auburn University

Wiley-Blackwell is proud to publish the journals of the National Council on Family Relations

Journal of Marriage and Family

A leading research journal in the family field, JMF features original research and theory, research interpretation and reviews, and critical discussion concerning all aspects of marriage, other forms of close relationships, and families.

Family Relations:

Interdisciplinary Journal of Applied Family Studies

A premier, applied journal of family studies, FR is mandatory reading for family scholars and all professionals who work with families.

Journal of Family Theory & Review

Now in its third volume, JFTR encourages integration and growth in the multidisciplinary and international domains of inquiry that define contemporary family studies.

Wiley-Blackwell's distinguished list of publications includes 7 titles ranked in the ISI Family Studies category. Plenary Sponsor

The University of Georgia

College of Family and Consumer Sciences

Department of Human Development and Family Science

Focused on Research, Scholarship, and Making a Difference for Families

The Department of Human Development and Family Science has a long tradition of NCFR conference participation and service to the organization. Four Reuben Hill Award Winners, five NCFR Fellows, and four NCFR presidents are among our current or emeritus faculty. We continue our tradition of support to NCFR and are pleased to sponsor the Friday, November 2 Plenary Session (10 a.m., Regency Ballroom) at the 2012 Annual Conference, featuring Brian Smedley, Ph.D., Vice President and Director of the Health Policy Institute of the Joint Center for Political and Economic Studies in Washington D.C.

You are invited to join our community of scholars. We offer the Doctor of Philosophy and Master of Science degrees. Our graduate students develop competencies necessary to succeed in academic research and teaching, outreach, and policy-related positions. The faculty is composed of nationally and internationally recognized experts in the family, social, and behavioral sciences. Located in Athens, Georgia, UGA is a Research University/Very High Activity (Carnegie Foundation) and land/sea grant institution. Why I attend the annual conference

I come to the NCFR conference because I want to know the latest research that intersects the fields of sociology, psychology, and demography on families. All my other meetings are too discipline-specific. NCFR is the only place I can go to get more information about families from multidisciplinary perspectives.

UNIVERSITY OF MINNESOTA

The Department of Family Social Science (FSoS) provides undergraduate, masters, and doctoral-level education focused on all aspects of family life in the U.S. and around the world using a family systems approach to examine families as they interact with their environments. Our daily scholarship seeks to understand and find effective solutions to the problems families face. Departmental faculty are leaders in family research, family theory, couple and family therapy, parenting and family education, and consultation on family issues.

FSoS faculty are involved in a number of interdisciplinary ventures, including collaborations within the university and a significant number of community partnerships as well as inter-university collaborations. Examples include the Academic Health Center, the Department of Family Medicine and Community Health, University of Minnesota Extension, Psychiatry, Social Work, Curriculum and Instruction, Post-Secondary Teaching and Learning, the Minnesota Department of Human Services, the Institute on Domestic Violence, and St. Mary's University.

Nationally, faculty collaborate with partners at the Oregon Social Learning Center and participate in multi-state research projects with scholars from more than 35 states. Internationally, faculty work with colleagues in Israel, Germany, Bolivia, Mexico, Thailand, Korea, Uganda, and Iraq. These relationships enrich FSoS scholarship across research, teaching, and engagement and students' formal and informal learning experiences.

Why I attend the annual conference

One of the best parts of being affiliated with NCFR is the opportunity to get to know students, faculty, and practitioners who are interested in cutting edge ideas related to family life. At the conference there are opportunities to have lunch with the leaders in our field, attend networking sessions, and listen to excellent presentations that get you excited about your own work. In addition, the Student/New Professional sessions have been critical in preparing me for the transition from student to faculty. I think that NCFR is the most practical and effective conference I attend.

CFLE Reception

General information

Welcome to the 74th NCFR Annual Conference. The theme “Families and Health” is the focus of a stimulating and relevant program that fits perfectly with the social and political issues so prevalent today.

This year’s offerings of plenaries, special sessions, research and practitioner updates are outstanding. NCFR Sections have planned stimulating special topic workshops, symposia and posters covering a wide range of topics in family sciences.

In addition to over 350 presentations, you can network with colleagues, meet NCFR Board members and Section Chairs, and learn from several of NCFR’s Fellows at “Fellows Round Tables.”

Contacting you

Please leave your cell phone number or hotel room number with family and workplaces. Locating you in an emergency can be difficult. You can add emergency contacts to your conference registration record if you did not do that earlier.

Accommodations for special needs

The Hyatt Regency Hotel and NCFR want to insure that all may fully participate in the conference. If you have questions or accommodation requests, notify staff at the conference registration desk or the hotel front desk. (NCFR and hotel staff are not available to provide personal assistance services.)

Other questions about the conference or logistics

Stop at the NCFR Conference Registration desk located on the main floor (Registration Desk #1).

Refund Policy

Refund deadline was October 8, 2012. For exceptions related to medical emergency (only), contact NCFR staff.

Wear your conference badge!

Badges must be worn at all times and are required for admission to all educational sessions, receptions, and activities.

Your conference registration fee covers admission to the following events:

- Plenaries, symposia/workshops, papers, round tables, posters
- Special sessions, Section and Focus Group business meetings
- Exhibits
- Newcomers’ Reception, open to first and second time attendees
- All receptions and workshops except the following which are invitation only or require pre-registration: all pre-conference workshops on Tuesday, Oct. 30; CFLE Reception; Legacy Circle; Affiliate Councils Workshop; Student Affiliates Breakfast

Continuing Education Hours

NCFR is approved for continuing education hours by the National Board of Certified Counselors, the National Association of Social Workers and NASW-AZ, the California Board of Behavioral Sciences, for up to 33.75 hours, and for NCFR Certified Family Life Educators (40 hours).

These continuing education opportunities are provided to therapists and counselors, social workers, and NCFR Certified Family Life Educators, as well as other family professionals. It is your responsibility to insure that your organization or agency accepts CEUs approved by NBCC, NASW, and CBBS.

If you registered for Continuing Education Hours, use the forms available from the Registration Desk. If you didn’t sign up for CEUs initially, you can add CEU registration at the conference registration desk. There is a $25 fee (does not apply to CFLE CEUs). Certificates of attendance will be mailed by January 15, 2013. One hour attendance verification is given for each clock hour in content sessions. (Breaks and introductions are excluded.)

Things to do

First Fridays–Art Crawl

Friday, November 2, it’s a celebration of art, with more than 70 Phoenix participating galleries and venues...special hours and free shuttles, offered by nonprofit Artlink Phoenix. Check in October for updates on First Friday the month we’ll be there.

CityScape (two blocks south of the Hyatt)

Located in the heart of downtown, CityScape Phoenix is a place where people come together for dining, nightlife, shopping, entertainment, business, community events and celebrations of all kinds. This authentic urban space connects people and generates energy, creativity and excitement all day, every day in one central location.

Arizona Center (two blocks north of the Hyatt)

More shopping, dining, nightlife within easy walking distance.

Why become a member?

We are NCFR

...the premier professional association for the multidisciplinary study of families. NCFR attracts professionals from all areas of research, teaching, practice, policy analysis, and human services.

Our members' interests—as diverse as their careers and backgrounds—are focused on topics and efforts that yield a common benefit: strengthening families.

Our organization

The National Council on Family Relations, established in 1938, is a nonpartisan, nonprofit professional organization focused solely on family research, policy and practice. Our 3300 members represent the nation's leading family researchers, educators, and practitioners.

Our journals

Journal of Marriage and Family . . . JMF, for 70 years the premier journal in the area of marriage and family. Editor: David Demo

Family Relations: Interdisciplinary Journal of Applied Family Studies . . . FR provides an applied focus for practitioners, educators, and policy professionals. Editor: Ronald Sabatelli

Journal of Family Theory & Review . . . New in 2009, JFTR provides a new option for exploring family and relationship theory; complimentary distribution to all journal-subscribing members in 2010. Editor: Robert Milardo

Our CFLE credential...the standard for family life educators

Certification is provided to family life educators through the Certified Family Life Educator designation. The NCFR CFLE curricular requirements have been incorporated into degree programs at more than 110 colleges and universities.

Stay informed

NCFR Report, the member magazine is published quarterly and features a "Family Focus" section with contributed articles on key topics. Network is the CFLE newsletter that includes book reviews, best practices, and news from CFLEs around the world. The "Zippy News" e-newsletter provides weekly updates and announcements on family matters.

Local connections

A dozen state affiliate councils gives NCFR a local flavor. Stay in touch with members in your area through conferences, events, and communications. Plus, 20 student affiliates offer a great option to build your resume and connect your academic experience to real-world opportunities. The Affiliate Councils provide communication options and conference program events to share information with other local affiliate members.

Shared interests...NCFR sections make it happen for you

There are ten sections within NCFR, each with a particular area of emphasis. Section members communicate through listservs and web page announcements. Many presentations at the Annual Conference are determined by section submission, review, and sponsorship.

Annual Conference...professional development plus

Stimulating and enlightening...that describes the NCFR annual conference. You'll find major presentations by leading professionals, break-out sessions of all kinds, and informal networking. Grow professionally, establish new contacts, and build lasting relationships.

Membership options that fit your career

- Special rates for students and emeritus members
- Professional levels with choice of journals
- New! "New Professional" option in 2010 for recent graduates

We are NCFR

... the premier professional association for the multidisciplinary understanding of families. The NCFR Annual Conference attracts professionals from all areas of research, teaching, practice, policy analysis, and human services.

Our members' interests—as diverse as their careers and backgrounds—are focused on topics and efforts that yield a common benefit: understanding and strengthening families.

Our organization

The National Council on Family Relations, established in 1938, is a nonpartisan, nonprofit professional organization focused solely on family research, policy and practice. Our 3,500 members represent the nation's leading family researchers, educators, and practitioners.

Our journals

Journal of Marriage and Family

JMF, for 75 years the premier journal in the area of marriage and family. Editor: David Demo

Family Relations: Interdisciplinary

Journal of Applied Family Studies

FR provides an applied focus for practitioners, educators, and policy professionals. Editor: Ronald Sabatelli

Journal of Family Theory & Review

New in 2009, JFTR provides a new option for exploring family and relationship theory; complimentary distribution to all journal-subscribing members in 2012. Editor: Robert Milardo

Our CFLE credential...the standard for family life educators

Certification is provided to family life educators through the Certified Family Life Educator credential. The NCFR CFLE curricular requirements have been incorporated into degree programs at more than 125 colleges and universities.

Stay informed

NCFR Report, the member magazine is published quarterly and features a "Family Focus" section with contributed articles on key topics. Network is the CFLE newsletter that includes book reviews, best practices, and news from CFLEs around the world. The "Zippy News" e-newsletter provides weekly updates and announcements on family matters.

Local connections

A dozen state and regional affiliate councils gives NCFR a local flavor. Stay in touch with members in your area through conferences, events, and communications. Plus, 20 student affiliates offer a great option to build your resume and connect your academic experience to real-world opportunities. The Affiliate Councils provide communication options and conference program events to share information with other local affiliate members.

Shared interests...NCFR sections make it happen for you

There are ten sections within NCFR, each with a particular area of emphasis. Section members communicate through listservs and web page announcements. Many presentations at the Annual Conference are determined by section submission, review, and sponsorship.

Annual Conference...professional development plus

Stimulating and enlightening...that describes the NCFR annual conference. You'll find major presentations by leading professionals, break-out sessions of all kinds, and informal networking. Grow professionally, establish new contacts, and build lasting relationships.
